

Kostis Papadantonakis

Personal:

Date of birth: April 27 1941

Place of birth: Athens, Greece

Marital status: Married

Citizenships: US and Greece

Languages: Greek, Latin, Italian, French, English, German

Education:

B.A. (Public and International Affairs), Princeton University, 1962.

Ph.D. (Economics), Cornell University, 1967

Teaching:

1963-1966: Cornell University (Teaching Assistant)

1967-1970: Université de Montréal (Assistant Professor)

1970-1973: St. Mary's College of Maryland (Associate Professor)

1973-2004: Community College of Baltimore County, Maryland (Professor; Dean of Business and Social Sciences, 2001-2004; Emeritus Professor, 2005-)

2004-2012: University of Maryland, Baltimore County (Adjunct Professor)

Research-related work:

"Soviet-Yugoslav Relations, 1941-1961," Woodrow Wilson Certificate Thesis, Louis Fisher, advisor

"The American Conservative Reaction to the United Nations," B.A. Thesis, Eric Goldman, advisor

"Greece: The Structure of Dependence," Ph.D. dissertation, Chandler Morse, advisor

"The State as Instrument of Fragmentation to the Periphery," in R. Rubinson, ed., Dynamics of World Development, Sage Publications, 1983

"World-Economic Crisis and Social Rectification in the United States," in A. Bergesen, ed., Crises in the World System, Sage Publications, 1983

"From Fragmentation to the Image of a Total Man: The Transformation of Greeks in America," in N. Banerjee & S. Moitra, eds., Communication, Identity, and Self-Expression, Oxford University Press, 1984.

"The Political Economy of Southern European Incorporation into the European Core: Capital Movements," in G. Arrighi, ed., Semi-Peripheral Development, Sage Publications, 1985.

"Mr. Malthus and the Romantics," paper presented to NEH Seminar on British Romantics and the Triumph of Liberalism, Johns Hopkins University, 1992.